

How to tell if RMR is Billed to a Subaccount or to the Master

09/12/2024 6:19 pm EDT

If you need to find out if RMR is being billed to a Subaccount or to a Master Account, there is a way to narrow that down before opening each RMR Item on each Subaccount.

Master Account

Open a Master Account and click on “Subaccounts.”

When the Subaccount list populates there are two columns located on the right side:

Master RMR:

If there is an amount listed in this column, then that specific Subaccount has RMR billed to the Master.

If there is no amount listed, then there is no RMR being billed to the Master.

Sub RMR: If there is an amount listed in this column, then that specific Subaccount has RMR billed to the Subaccount.

If there is no amount listed, then there is no RMR being billed to the Subaccount.

A Subaccount can have RMR items billed to the Master, and some billed to the Subaccount. If this is the case, then there will be an amount listed in both columns.

If there is no amount shown in either column, then that Subaccount does not have any Active RMR.

The screenshot shows a software interface for a Master Account named "Hoffman Auto Group-New (Master Account)". The left sidebar contains a tree view with "Subaccounts" selected. The main area displays account details for "Hoffman Auto Group Inc Billing" and a table of subaccounts. The table has columns for Customer #, Site Name, Branch, Address, City, Master RMR, Sub RMR, Master RAR, and Sub RAR. Red arrows point to the "Subaccounts" menu item and the "Master RMR" and "Sub RMR" columns. The table shows various subaccounts with their respective RMR amounts.
